WAL-MART'S BAD NEWS

1 Wal-Mart said earnings per share would decline as much as 12 percent next fiscal year due to investment in technology, higher wages and lower prices, sending its shares down more than 8 percent. Wal-Mart also announced a $20 billion share buyback, but the drop in its share price wiped out close to the same amount in market value. REUTERS

FLORIDA PLANE CRASH

2 A small plane crashed into a South Florida mobile home park, killing the pilot and another person on the ground, the National Transportation Safety Board said Wednesday. The crash was reported to Palm Beach County Fire Rescue on Tuesday night after witnesses saw the aircraft drop out of the sky. Surveillance video showed the plane banking and zooming down from the sky before it crashed, sending a column of black smoke into the air. REUTERS

SHOPIFY AND UBER

3 Canadian e-commerce platform Shopify Inc. said it was partnering with taxi-hailing service Uber to help merchants deliver goods to customers on the same day in New York City, Chicago and San Francisco. Shopify said the UberRUSH delivery service will be available to its merchants in the three cities immediately. REUTERS

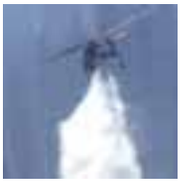
WYOMING WILDFIRE



4 More than 1,000 Wyoming residents displaced by a wildfire have been allowed to return to their homes as firefighters gained the upper hand on a blaze that destroyed 13 residences and numerous outbuildings, officials said. Evacuation orders were lifted for residents of outlying neighborhoods of Casper, Wyo. REUTERS

EL FARO LAWSUIT

5 A lawyer for the family of a missing crew member from the El Faro cargo ship, which sank off the Bahamas in a hurricane two weeks ago, said he filed a $100 million lawsuit in Florida court against the owners of the ship, accusing them of gross negligence. The lawsuit on behalf of the estate of Lonnie Jordan, one of the 33 crew members presumed dead, was filed in Jacksonville against Tote Services Inc. and Tote Maritime Puerto Rico, attorney Willie E. Gary told reporters outside the Duval County courthouse. REUTERS

City Council harangues service provider for failing to fulfill FiOS agreement with City Hall.

CHESTER SORIA
@chestersoria
chester.soria@metro.us

New York City lawmakers questioned executives from Verizon and their commitment to follow through with an existing agreement to offer high-speed broadband throughout all the boroughs.

Council members, joined by Public Advocate Letitia James, were flummoxed by why so many New York City residents can't access Verizon FiOS service, while the company's executives argued its systems pass through all city households and that the most significant holdup falls on lack of cooperation from landlords and property managers.

The deal, inked and signed by the Bloomberg administration in 2005, expected to pass fiber optic cables through all residential households by June 30, 2014.

Verizon argued it met the requirement by installing the arteries for service and that the disconnect is in being unable to connect the service, which they said was not part of the agreement.

"It's nice that the Bloomberg administration whitewashed your agreement on compliance," said Brooklyn City Councilman Brad Lander, who said he tried to get FiOS service but was told by customer service that service was unavailable.

When Kevin Service, a vice president for Verizon's network operations, began to say he shared Lander's desire to offer its services to more New Yorkers, Lander interrupted.

"It's not a desire," Lander said. "It's a contractual obligation."

The de Blasio administration levied criticism against Verizon in June when its technology and telecommunications agency released a scathing audit finding that company failed to meet the agreement.

"It's a contractual obligation."
Lander

Leecia Eve, a vice president for state government affairs at Verizon, told the council the company has been a willing, transparent partner, fending off criticism that they were not committed to meeting its agreement with the city.

"We have participated in good-faith negations," she said as some audience members erupted in protest. "We have 2 million households that can request FiOS today and get it installed tomorrow."

BRIEF

Armed man forces himself into Brooklyn MTA token booth

An armed man forced his way into a subway worker's booth in Brownsville on Tuesday and took cash from the register in broad daylight, police said.

Authorities reported Charles Hudgins, 42, took advantage of a cleaner emptying out the trash bin inside a token booth at the Junius Street station near Powell Street at around 3 p.m.

Hudgins forced himself into the booth and flashed a gun, forcing the worker to empty out the cash register, officers said. He ran away from the scene soon after.

Investigators said no one was injured in the daytime caper, and that witnesses nearby helped identify Hudgins as the culprit. However, the suspect remains at large.

Hudgins PROVIDED

NYPD described Hudgins — who was previously arrested in March for drug possession — as 6-feet-2 and weighing about 190 pounds.

Police ask that anyone with information regarding Hudgins or the incident call the NYPD's Crime Stoppers Hotline at 800-577-TIPS or text their tips to 274637 (CRIMES) then enter TIP577. CHESTER SORIA

Gracie to open for tours in November

Visitors to the historic mayoral home can get a sneak peek of new art collection on Oct. 25

CHESTER SORIA
@chestersoria
chester.soria@metro.us

The city's designated home for mayors since 1942 is opening up once again to the public in November.

The Upper East Side mansion features a new art collection on display curated to showcase the city's diversity throughout six rooms in the home. The latest additions can all be sourced to the time of the original Gracie Mansion, which was built in 1799.

"When we look back, we are reminded that diversity is this city's DNA," said first lady Chirlane McCray in a statement. "We flourish when we celebrate and encourage our bounty of difference. That's the story this installation tells."

Titled "Windows on the City," the exhibit also includes stoneware, Native-American artifacts and historical documents on loan from the New York State Archives on slavery.

Public tours will start in earnest on Nov. 10. Those interested in attending the October open house can register online at NYC.gov/graciepen house.

NBC New York reported the new art pieces replace previously featured portraits of President George Washington and wife of former Mayor Robert Wagner, Susan Wagner.

New Yorkers and tourists alike can take a gander at 49 new works during an open house on October 25, and can register for the initial tour of the historic home starting Oct. 19.

The mansion has undergone serious repairs starting in January, when ongoing leaking forced the city to spend capital money to replace Gracie's roof. Workers later found asbestos in the home.

Former Mayor Michael Bloomberg hosted events and dignitaries in the space, but chose to live in his own Upper East Side townhouse.

"When we look back, we are reminded that diversity is this city's DNA."

NYC gets D+ on hiring businesses owned by women and minorities

The city is still falling short of hiring companies owned by women and minorities, though it is doing a better job than in 2014, according to a report released by City Comptroller Scott Stringer on Wednesday.

The second annual report, called "Making the Grade: New York City Agency Report Card on Minority/Women Owned Businesses Enterprises (M/WBE)," gave the city an overall D+ rating — up from a D in 2014 — and "found that women and minorities continue to be largely shut out of New York's $13.8 billion annual procurement budget," according to Stringer's office.

Just $725 million of that procurement budget is going to women and minority-owned businesses, Stringer's office said. That means less than 2 percent of the city's 46,000 vendors are owned by women or minorities.

Stringer MILES DIXON

"New York City has certified more than 4,100 vendors as official 'Minority and Women-Owned Business Enterprises' — but we've left 80 percent of them in the lurch when it comes to actually giving out contracts," Stringer said in a statement.

The report found the city is doing a better job using firms owned by Asian and Hispanic owners, but businesses owned by black and women scored an F.

The report card also noted that two-thirds of agencies didn't follow city regulations that require them to collect data on the subcontractors they hire.

Mayor Bill de Blasio's spokeswoman, Ishanee Parikh, said the administration is "making an unprecedented effort to prioritize increasing awards to minority and women-owned business enterprises."

Uber drivers to receive Amber Alerts in NYC

The city's 30,000 drivers will receive Amber Alerts to help find missing children, the company said.

New York City Uber drivers will start receiving alerts in their cars for missing children on Wednesday, the company has announced.

The move to inform the city's 30,000 drivers about vulnerable children is in partnership with the National Center for Missing & Exploited Children and supported by Council Member Corey Johnson, who chairs the city council's health committee, the company said.

"We at Uber want to do anything we can to help protect the children in our city. ... With so many driver-partners traveling across the city every day, this effort can help make a real difference for our neighbors and communities," Josh Mohrer, UberNYC's general manager, said in a statement.

Uber, which claims to cover 75 percent of the U.S. population, partners with the NCMEC in 180 other U.S. cities, according to the company.

Amber Alerts have found 772 children since the program started in 1996, according to the press release.

Bradley has flown the Eagles coop

Eagles die-hard was "huge" Strahan fan and likes Eli "a lot."

NED EHRBAR
AND EVAN MACY
@MetroPhilly

Bradley Cooper and Philadelphia have a thing together. It's hard to deny.

The 2011 People's Sexiest Man Alive was born and raised in the area, grew up in Jenkintown and filmed his Oscar-nominated Eagles-themed movie, "Silver Linings Playbook," in the city.

But in a sharp shift from his Philly-guy persona — he did the voice-over on an anti-New York, anti-Giants video rant last season, he had some sweet things to say about the G-Men, who head to Philly next week for an early-season make-or-break Monday night tilt.

"I wouldn't say I'm not the biggest fan of the Giants," Cooper told Metro in an exclusive interview. "I actually like Eli Manning a lot, and I was a huge Michael Strahan fan. They were an incredible team, but I'm from Philly. What do you want me to do?"

EVERETT COLLECTION

The 40-year-old graduate of Germantown Academy is solid on one thing when it comes to the Eagles: Never count your chickens.

"Well, I was happy with last week, and then we have the Giants on Monday night, so fingers crossed," Cooper told Metro. "We're 2-3, and you know, I always try to stay positive."

Last season, the Birds were 9-3 and looking poised to make a deep playoff run. But the Seahawks, Cowboys and Redskins dismantled Chip Kelly's team, as the Eagles finished 1-3 and missed the playoffs in heartbreaking fashion.

The hearthrob hedged his bets when it came to coach Chip Kelly and quarterback Sam Bradford, offering a lukewarm show of support for the embattled duo.

"You know, we'll see," Cooper told Metro. "They had a good last weekend [a 39-17 win against the Saints], but you never know until the end of the season."

How to Tell Time Like a Man

Our digital-analog hybrid has two sides... tough and tougher. Get it now for an unbelievable $59!

Your watch shouldn't cost more than your car. It should look and feel like a power tool and not a piece of bling. Wearing it shouldn't make you think twice about swinging a hammer or changing a tire. A real man's timepiece needs to be ready for anything. But that's just my opinion. If you agree, maybe you're ready for the Stauer Centurion Hybrid. Use your Exclusive Insider Promotional Code below and I'll send it to you today for ONLY $59.

This watch doesn't do dainty. And neither do I. Call me old-fashioned, but I want my boots to be leather, my tires to be deep-tread monsters, and my steak thick and rare. Inspiration for a man's watch should come from things like fast cars, firefighters and power tools. And if you want to talk beauty, then let's discuss a 428 cubic inch V8.

Did I mention the $59 price tag? This is a LOT of machine for not a lot of money. The Stauer Centurion Hybrid sports a heavy-duty alloy body, chromed and detailed with a rotating bezel that allows you to track direction. The luminous hour and minute hands mean you can keep working into the night. And the dual digital displays give this watch a hybrid ability. The LCD windows displays the time, day and date, includes a stopwatch function, and features a bright green electro-luminescent backlight. We previously offered the Centurion for $199, but with the exclusive promotional code it's yours for ONLY $59!

No matter what, this watch can keep up. Thanks to the Stauer 30-day Money Back Guarantee, you've got time to prove it. If you're not totally satisfied, return it for a full refund of the purchase price. You also get a 2-year replacement guarantee on both movements. But I have a feeling the only problem you'll have is deciding whether to keep the Stauer Centurion on your dresser or tucked inside your toolbox.

Twitter takes Google exec Kordestani for post of chairman

His sales experience could prove a good counterpoint to Twitter co-founder Dorsey's vision, analysts said.

Twitter lured Google executive Omid Kordestani to become the social media company's executive chairman, the latest step in the company's turnaround efforts under Jack Dorsey, who last week was named permanent CEO.

Kordestani's extensive sales experience could prove a good counterpoint to Twitter co-founder Dorsey's product knowledge and vision, analysts said.

"It's rare you get to be at a company with an amazing business that's also transforming the world," Kordestani tweeted. "I've had good fortune to be at three: Netscape, @google, and now @twitter."

Omid Kordestani GETTY IMAGES

Kordestani, most recently senior adviser at Google, will join Twitter's board and will have an operational role at the company, a Twitter spokeswoman said. That will include help with board and employee recruiting and advising executive leadership.

Twitter said last week it would hire an outsider as chairman to allay concerns about Dorsey's dual role as head of mobile payments company Square Inc, which is reportedly planning an IPO.

"It's quite a coup," said James Cordwell, analyst at Atlantic Equities. "He was very well-respected at Google."

Twitter shares, which are down 18 percent this year, were up about 1 percent in afternoon trading.

The announcement could lead to other changes to the board, long criticized for having too many former Twitter CEOs, an excess that investors and analysts said had hampered the company's ability to attract executives and high-level employees.

Clinton's showing may dampen calls for Biden to run

At times, Clinton seemed to be reaching out both to the progressives in her party more likely to back Sanders and the moderates who may prefer Biden.

Democratic presidential candidates Sen. Bernie Sanders and Hillary Clinton take part in a presidential debate at Wynn Las Vegas on Tuesday. GETTY IMAGES

Vice President Joe Biden faced an altered political dynamic Wednesday after Hillary Clinton reasserted her command of the Democratic Party presidential race during a debate that may have left little room for him to run.

Analysts widely hailed Clinton, 67, as turning in a nimble, effective performance Tuesday night, perhaps easing the fears of some Democrats fretting that the flap over her use of a private email server while in the Obama administration was torpedoing her candidacy for the 2016 election.

In doing so, she may have dampened calls for Biden to make a belated entrance into the race while also blunting the threat from insurgent candidate Bernie Sanders, the 74-year-old senator from Vermont and self-described democratic socialist.

> "This is the kind of debate that helps build momentum."
> Rodell Mollineau

"If you're a Hillary supporter and you were worried for whatever reason, you should feel very good about yourself," said Rodell Mollineau, a Democratic strategist who attended the televised debate in Las Vegas.

Sanders, Clinton's top rival among declared candidates, was handed the opportunity by debate moderators to assail her over the email issue. Instead, he dismissed the controversy as trivial, drawing an ovation from the crowd and shoving the spotlight away from Clinton's most profound political weakness.

For Biden, 72, who continues to ponder a bid for the presidency, the evening served as a reminder of how tenacious Clinton can be as a candidate, steeled by scores of debates in her 2008 presidential run and four years as secretary of state.

She went toe-to-toe with Sanders over gun control, addressed income inequality and advocated for more liberal family-leave policies.

At the same time, she refused to go along with Sanders' call to break up Wall Street banks, reiterated her support of the Patriot Act and said she would not hesitate to use military force if necessary.

At times, Clinton obliquely criticized President Barack Obama's White House and, by proxy, Biden, for failing to stand up to Russian President Vladimir Putin and for doing too little about the civil war in Syria.

Biden mentioned the debate in remarks to reporters Wednesday but gave no indication of whether he will enter the race.

"I thought every one of those folks last night ... I thought they all did well," he said after a speech in Washington about transportation investment. REUTERS Shoulder Arthritis Treatments Keeping Boomers Active Into Their 60's, 70's Even 80's?

If you suffer with painful shoulder arthritis – science may have finally found the answer you've been looking for.

Here is why: Researchers have discovered an natural gel like medicine that is like "joint oil." This all-natural gel is one of the naturally occurring lubricating substances in your shoulder joint that cushions and lubricates the joint which dries out over time due to wear-and-tear, age or injury. But when doctors precisely place this lubricating gel into your shoulder joint by using advanced digital imaging technology – it is like putting oil on a rusty door hinge. It lubricates the joint and can decrease pain and stiffness. For some, results can be dramatic and last for months. Years for some. Often times shoulder surgery can be avoided.

Know this: This is NOT a supplement you can buy over the counter or on the internet. This is a REAL medical treatment that must be given by a trained health care professional.

And the great news is: There is a free report and information kit available that tells you everything you need to know about this treatment. It also tells you all about cutting-edge medical clinics right here in New York City that are offering this cutting-edge treatment with tremendous success.

To get your information kit or to schedule a No-Obligation Risk Free Shoulder Screening simply call 800-627-PAIN (7246).

Ex-NBA star Lamar Odom reported in critical condition

It was the latest episode in Odom's roller-coaster personal and professional life.

Lamar Odom GETTY IMAGES

Lamar Odom, a former professional basketball player and reality TV star, was reported to be fighting for his life in a Las Vegas hospital on Wednesday after he was found unresponsive at a legal brothel.

The 35-year-old former Los Angeles Lakers standout and ex-husband of Khloe Kardashian suffered a medical emergency on Tuesday at the Love Ranch brothel in Crystal, Nevada, and was taken to the hospital, the Nye County Sheriff's Office said.

Sunrise Hospital & Medical Center, where Odom was taken, declined to comment on Odom's condition, citing patient confidentiality.

But celebrity website TMZ.com cited unidentified sources as saying Odom was in a coma and that some of his organs were failing.

Another outlet, E!, also cited unnamed sources in reporting that Odom suffered brain damage and at least one stroke, and was on a ventilator after taking multiple drugs. The E! cable TV channel airs the reality show "Keeping Up with the Kardashians."

The brothel's owner, Dennis Hof, said that, during his three-day stay, Odom had been taking large amounts of "herbal Viagra," a nonprescription product which can dramatically lower blood pressure and interact with other medications.

Khloe Kardashian, whose whirlwind romance with Odom was captured in "Keeping Up with the Kardashians" and its spin-off, "Khloe and Lamar," was at his bedside, TMZ and Us Weekly reported.

The couple split in 2013 after four years of marriage and their divorce was finalized in July, though she has remained in close contact with him.

Odom publicist Eve Sarkisyan said in a statement that "family and friends are extremely concerned for Lamar" but warned against "false information being circulated unofficially."

Odom's hospitalization followed a downturn in a 14-season career with National Basketball Association teams, including the Lakers from 2004-2011.

On top of the pressures of the life of a top NBA player, Odom, whose mother died when he was 12, had to deal with being a reality TV star after marrying Kardashian.

The 6-foot-10 athlete has long been reported to have had issues with cocaine abuse, although this has never been publicly confirmed. He has admitted only to using marijuana.

During the 2000-2001 season, Odom was suspended for violating the NBA's antidrug policy. In 2013, he pleaded no contest in Los Angeles to a charge of driving under the influence and was ordered to undergo rehabilitation for three months for alcohol abuse. REUTERS

Lil Wayne gets ahead of himself on Lamar Odom's demise

ALL PHOTOS GETTY IMAGES

When news broke that Lamar Odom was found unconscious in a Nevada brothel, plenty of famous folks started sending best wishes and hopes for a speedy recovery. Except for Lil Wayne. The rapper — who may have just misheard what was going on — jumped straight into mourning the loss of the retired NBA player and former Kardashian-adjacent reality star. Wednesday morning, while Khloe Kardashian and Kobe Bryant were rushing to Odom's bedside, Weezy tweeted, "R.I.P. LO. Damn man. My blessings to ur fam and friends." An embarrassing gaffe, to be sure. Except Wayne isn't really one for embarrassment. He tweeted a follow-up, simply stating, "Woop," but he didn't take the original tweet down. But maybe — and hear me out here — Lil Wayne actually knows something we don't. Maybe he's secretly from the future. It would explain so much! Then again, he did say R.I.P. "Lo." Has anyone checked on Lindsay Lohan lately?

Emilia Clarke, your sexiest woman alive

Dragons or no dragons, Esquire magazine officially dubs Daenerys Targaryen the fairest in the five kingdoms. Or rather, the mag has dubbed "Game of Thrones" star Emilia Clarke the sexiest woman alive. Take that, all other living women! And while the magazine is focusing on her looks, Clarke reveals how she prepped for her audition for "Game of Thrones," despite not really fitting the part that would eventually make her a star. "My agent told the casting director, 'I know that the breakdown for this character is tall and willowy and blonde. I know she's short and round and brown, but I'd like you to see her,'" Clarke explains. "I had two scenes which told me nothing and not very much time in which to read all those books. So I did what every good actor does and Wikipedia'd the living crap out of it."

Want to go to a naked Miley Cyrus concert?

Want to see Miley Cyrus — and the Flaming Lips — performing totally naked? First off, that's an oddly specific fantasy. And second, you're in luck! But there's a catch: You have to be naked, too. Along with the rest of the audience. "Oh f—! [Cyrus] is planning a show where her, the band (us) and the audience are all completely naked with milk — well, white stuff that looks like milk — being spewed everywhere," Flaming Lips ringleader Wayne Coyne spilled on Instagram. "It's a video (in the works) for ['Miley and Her Dead Pets'] song 'The Milky Milky Milk.'" This sounds … less than sanitary. And like a legal nightmare.

Heidi Klum is a self-professed Mr. Mom

Heidi Klum is opening up about life as a single mom some four years after her divorce from Seal, and you know what? Things aren't really that different. "Obviously things have changed, but they haven't changed drastically," she tells Redbook. "He was never your typical dad who left for work in the morning with his briefcase and would be home by dinner time every night. He traveled a lot. The kids knew it was part of his job. I'm a mom and a dad at the same time."

Blanchett and Redford return to history

The stars of "Truth" say their film isn't a simple exoneration of Dan Rather.

MATT PRIGGE
@mattprigge
matt.prigge@metro.us

Cate Blanchett's Mary Mapes confers with Robert Redford's Dan Rather in "Truth," out Friday, which tells of their downfall after a contested "60 Minutes" segment about George W. Bush's military service. SONY PICTURES CLASSICS

Obviously Robert Redford, star of "All the President's Men," has a lot to say about journalism. But Cate Blanchett, Redford's co-star in "Truth," is no slouch. "Truth" reassesses the firing of Dan Rather, played by Redford, over a "60 Minutes" story on George W. Bush's alleged military service — a report whose veracity was quickly, and perhaps sloppily, called into question. Blanchett plays Mary Mapes, the segment's producer, who went down with Rather.

Rather is still considered evil by some, and some have assumed this would be a simple exoneration of him and Mapes. But when you watch it, it's clear the film's position is that it's complicated.

Robert Redford: They made their mistakes. There's one scene where they get reamed out. That's terrific. That those flaws are in the film, that's a good thing.

Cate Blanchett: I don't think it was [the director's] nor the film's ambition to exonerate them. They're not held up as saints. It's reopening the closed book and saying, "Has this really been discussed? Have we really pulled this apart?"

As things look bad for them, Mary unravels. She's very human about it — and very grouchy too.

Blanchett: I think she oscillated between rage and despair. It's a journalist's worst nightmare that some fact wasn't fully checked.

Redford: And how hard it is to control yourself with those two emotions rolling around.

Blanchett: And particularly for Dan, because he had to maintain a composure and dignity and self-respect in front of the camera. Whereas Mary is behind the camera, feeling for the man she reveres and admires and is deeply connected to, feeling that somehow she's responsible for his downfall. That is the biggest cross she bears. There's also a sense of the toxicity of the political atmosphere — that as soon as you embark on analyzing politics or raising questions, it's attack politics. You get shut down, not only from a professional standpoint but also personally. Once it enters your personal arena, it's OK to go after your family and your sexuality and rumors — stupid stuff, like she and Dan were having an affair. I wish! [Laughs]

Redford: That part's been cut out of the film. It's too bad.

Blanchett: I like those sex scenes. I thought they were necessary.

Redford on journalism

This film has a lot say about what has changed in journalism since 2004.

Robert Redford: Journalism is essential for society, as I do art. I can't imagine a society without art. Journalism is, I think, vital, and somehow always under threat. If journalism threatens the powers that be, you have a problem.

You get the windows, we pay the interest

The problems with poor-quality vinyl windows:

- Even through normal temperature changes, poor-quality vinyl windows and patio doors can expand, contract, warp and leak.
- If their seals break and the insulating gas escapes, your energy-efficiency goes out the window.

The solution is our Fibrex® window:

- We're the replacement window division of Andersen, and they developed our Fibrex material to meet their superior standards.
- Fibrex is so strong it helps prevent glass movement, seal failure, and discomfort in your home.
- Our Fibrex material is twice as strong as vinyl, and—unlike wood—requires virtually no maintenance.*

Aries Fun and entertainment will highlight your day. A close friend or relative will entice you to try something adventurous.

Taurus You must be clear about how much you are willing to do. Embarrassment could result if those around you expect more than you can give.

Gemini Holding a grudge is pointless and stressful. You will cause more harm internally if you harbor ill will toward others.

Cancer Timely information will accompany a chance for a new beginning. Hesitation will lead to a missed opportunity.

Leo Your competitive spirit will give you an advantage over your rivals. Others will be impressed by your skills, enabling you to gain support.

Virgo You may feel generous, but overindulgence will cause serious problems when your bills arrive. Offer your time or suggestions, not money.

Libra Love is on the rise. Participation in a philanthropic or charitable event will bring you recognition and respect from an influential individual.

Scorpio Unanticipated alterations to your home or property will be beneficial in the long run. A former friend will want to reconnect.

Sagittarius Travel and communication delays can be expected. Resist the urge to make hasty decisions or unreasonable promises.

Capricorn Finish projects, conclude contracts or finalize deals. Completing your current plans will show everyone that you mean business.

Aquarius Preparation will prevent you from being overwhelmed by your responsibilities. Helping others will introduce you to a diverse group.

Pisces Your reputation will grow if you make changes. Expand your profile and touch up your résumé in order to give your confidence a boost. EUGENIA LAST

Ghost Light: The Haunting PROVIDED

going out

Spooky stage

If haunted houses aren't your thing, try a Halloween-themed theater production about the supernatural, murder and the everyday horror around us. EVA KIS

Sleepy Hollow the Musical

$30-$60; through Nov. 7
The Players Theatre
115 MacDougal St.
Don't let the title fool you, "Sleepy Hollow the Musical" is not a lighthearted romp through Washington Irving's classic horror story. Two lovers taunt the wrong man in woods, becoming caught up in a mystical love triangle and trying to escape not just with their heads but their souls.

"Nightmare: Horror Show"

$25-$30; through Oct. 31
The Clemente, 107 Suffolk St.
This year, Timothy Haskell isn't opening Nightmare, one of the city's most notorious haunted houses. Instead, he is "returning to my roots as a theater director in an attempt to create honest-to-goodness scary theater." The result is "Nightmare: Horror Show," a festival of seven hair-raising plays designed to make you question what seems ordinary.

"Ghost Light: The Haunting"

$18; Oct. 23-Nov. 8
TBG Theatre
312 W. 36th St.
"Yotsuya Ghost Tales" is a classic Japanese kabuki play, but this production has been fused with "Macbeth" to become "Ghost Light: The Haunting," about a successful actress who returns from the dead seeking vengeance against her showbiz husband after "the Scottish play" puts them at odds.

Halloween Murder Mystery

$25; Oct. 23-24
Mount Vernon Hotel Museum, 421 E. 61st St.
A skeleton has been found at a hotel, and it's up to visitors to figure out who the victim was, how they died and who killed them. Search for clues by candlelight to test your Sherlock Holmes skills or team up with other guests to solve the Halloween Murder Mystery.

Gypsy Danger improv horror

$10; Oct. 30
The Striker, 123 E. 24th St.
Great horror films are about more than quick scares, buckets of blood and an eerie soundtrack. They can't be improvised — or can they? On the night before Halloween, Gypsy Danger will create a one-hour production that they promise will have you "screaming ... with laughter!"

"Hocus Pocus" in the style of Wes Anderson

$10; Oct. 31
The Striker, 123 E, 24th St.
The Wes Anderson Players think all of Hollywood could use the quirky director's touch, and they've been remaking pop culture hits like "When Harry Met Sally" and "Jurassic Park" in his style. This Halloween, they're taking on the already campy classic "Hocus Pocus."

3 things to know this week

1 Get your Will Ferrell fix at a bar

Save your pilgrimages to San Diego (who wants to see a whale's vagina, anyway?) and head to Stay Classy New York, a new bar dedicated to Will Ferrell's oeuvre, from the artwork on the walls to the drink in your hand — try a Mugatu Mule, which subs tequila for vodka and adds bitters, like you do for a megalomaniac fashion icon. Also in the works: a themed Halloween bash. 174 Rivington St.

2 The Dead Rabbit's rise (and recipes)

How did two bartenders from Belfast open the world's best bar in NYC? Sean Muldoon and Jack McGarry finally tell their story, and why it couldn't have happened anywhere else but New York City, in the newly released "The Dead Rabbit Drinks Manual." Not to mention sharing nearly 100 classic cocktail recipes, including how McGarry updated them for the Rabbit.

3 Rockefeller Center kicks off ice skating season

Yes, the weather outside remains more frightful late summer than delightful mid-fall, but the festive season doesn't have to wait for snow. The Rink at Rockefeller Center officially opened this week, so get your movie moment in from 8:30 a.m. to midnight through Easter. Elsewhere in Manhattan, the Wollman Rink in Central Park will open on the 24th, while Bryant Park's Winter Village opens on the 30th. EVA KIS

COMEDY

'Colin Quinn: The New York Story'

Oct. 20-Jan. 31
Cherry Lane Theatre
38 Commerce St.
$74-$114
Cherrylanetheatre.org
This weekend kicks off the run of Colin Quinn's new one-man show, "The New York Story." With a much narrower subject area than some of his former shows — like "Long Story Short," which recounted the history of the world, or "Unconstitutional," the history of America — Quinn returns to more personal material with a show about the history of New York, from the Quakers to the hipsters, directed by Jerry Seinfeld.

CURIOSITY

Morbid Anatomy Flea Market

Oct. 18, noon-6 p.m.
The Bell House
149 Seventh St., Brooklyn
$1, Thebellhouseny.com
This is the last chance to round out your field mouse skeleton collection for the rest of the year. Get to this market for the strange and unusual, ranging from insects to bones, taxidermy to rare books. This weekend promises more vendors, more antiques and more obscurities than ever before.

MUSIC

SONiC Music Fest

Oct. 15-23
Multiple venues
Prices vary, Sonicfestival.org
Since 2011, SONiC (Sounds of a New Century) has hosted an annual celebration of young talent who are creating and defining modern music across all genres. This year features over 80 performances from artists under the age of 40 over nine days. One highlight is Friday's free concert by the American Composers Orchestra, with a production titled "New York Stories."

Gospel concert with Tituss Burgess

Oct. 18, 6-7:30 p.m.
Middle Collegiate Church
112 Second Ave.
$20, Middlechurch.org
If you've only ever heard Tituss Burgess sing about pinot noir on "The Unbreakable Kimmy Schmidt," well, then you've missed a lot of great stints on Broadway. He writes his own music, too, and this Sunday he'll be conducting the Middle Community Chorus in a concert of his original compositions as well as some of his favorite gospel songs.

'House of David: delaria + bowie = jazz'

Oct. 21, Nov. 4, Nov. 25; 11:30 p.m.
Smoke Jazz Club, 2751 Broadway
$12, Smokejazz.com
You wouldn't know it from the show, but a majority of the "Orange Is the New Black" cast can carry a serious tune. A leader among them is Lea Delaria (Big Boo), who recently released her new album, "House of David: delaria + bowie = jazz," which revisits David Bowie's music with a modern jazz slant. Delaria will be performing three shows with a four-piece band starting next Wednesday.

DANCING

One Step Beyond

Oct. 16, 9 p.m.-1 a.m.
American Museum of Natural History
Central Park West & 79th St.
$25-$30, AMNH.org
The ninth season of the coolest museum dance party series begins Friday, with music from Freedom Party NYC and DJ Cosi, and a cash bar for wine and beer. With the party raging on past midnight, it might not quite be a sleepover at the museum, but it's definitely the next best thing.

ARTS

St. Ann's Warehouse Open House

Oct. 17, noon-9:30 p.m.
45 Water St.
Free-$25, Stannswarehouse.org
Brooklyn's indie theater darling has made a spectacular comeback after Superstorm Sandy. But the company has outgrown its first home, and this weekend it will officially open its long-awaited new space with a free open house party that starts with music, activities and refreshments, leading to the first show of the season ($25) with Brooklyn Youth Chorus and Kronos Quartet.

Inside the Artist's Studio

Oct. 19, 7:30 p.m.
92nd Street Y, Warburg Lounge
1395 Lexington Ave.
$32, 92y.org
Art takes more than talent; you also need the discipline to produce your work. Next Monday, artist and author Joe Fig leads a panel discussion about contemporary artists, their inspiration and their work routines. After the talk, he will be signing copies of his new book, "Inside the Artist's Studio," which is based on his visits to the studios of 24 artists.

RELATIONSHIPS

Menage a Trois Radio After Dark

Oct. 16, 11:59 p.m.
Upright Citizens Brigade Theatre, 307 W. 26th St.
$5, chelsea.ucbtheatre.com
Romance should be raunchy but also, you know, romantic, and who better than a real-life couple to guide us on the road of love? This week, Diana Kolsky and Murf Meyer's candid sex and relationship podcast welcomes as its "trois" guitar goddess Kaki King, and we hear there could be noise-making dildos — because creativity is important in the bedroom and the recording studio.

WELLBEING

Path Meditation

Oct. 20, 7:30 p.m.
The Players Club
16 Gramercy Park South
$75-$250, Thepath.com
Buddhist monk, acclaimed TED talker and bestselling author Matthieu Ricard is hosting the latest meditation event from The Path — a social club for mindful living, often hosted by special guests. Top-tier tickets gain access to a private tea ceremony and cocktail party with Ricard. Proceeds support Karuna-Shechen, which provides health care and education in Asia.

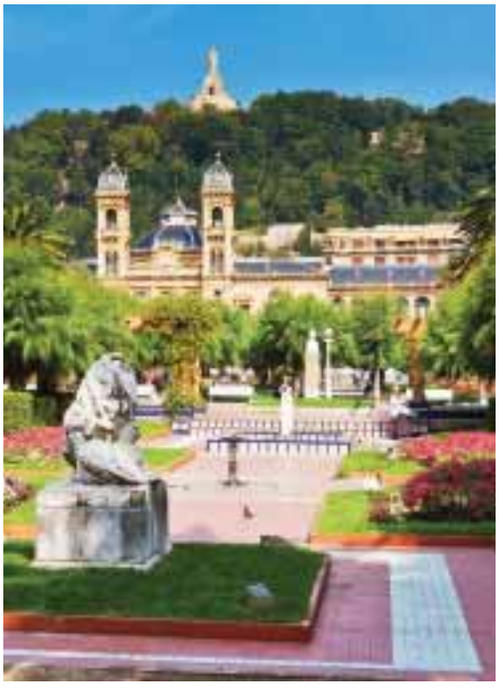
INSIGHT GUIDES TRAVEL WEEKLY

INSIGHTGUIDES.COM TRAVEL WEEKLY, NEW YORK, THURSDAY, OCTOBER 15, 2015

Basque in glory in northern Spain

ALL PHOTOS SHUTTERSTOCK



The cities of northern Spain have much to offer tourists in terms of art, culture, history and, of course, traditional Basque cuisine.

You'd be forgiven for thinking that the only thing that ever happens in Pamplona is the running of the bulls through the streets during the weeklong Festival of San Fermin each July. But Pamplona is one of several exciting cities in the northeast corner of Spain that have just as much to offer as the better known southern cities.

San Sebastian, an easy hour's drive north of Pamplona, is one of the most popular holiday resorts for Spaniards but is less known to overseas travelers. In 2016, that will change when San Sebastian becomes a European Capital of Culture, alerting the outside world to its many attractions. Beyond its wonderful beach curving around the Bahia de La Concha is the historic Old Town with ancient churches and the Museo San Telmo (Santelmomuseoa.com). If you want to find out about the Basque culture of this part of Spain, this museum, set in an old monastery, is an absorbing delight.

An hour west along the coast is Bilbao, the largest Basque city, with its wealth of museums. The most notable is the Guggenheim Museum Bilbao (Guggenheim-bilbao.es/en), looking just as futuristic and striking now as it did when it opened in 1997. It concentrates on modern art with work by artists including Willem de Kooning, Mark Rothko and Jeff Koons, but it also displays the work of Basque artists. Notable too is the Bilbao Fine Arts Museum, dating from 1908, with works from Goya, El Greco, Gauguin, Cezanne, Francis Bacon and more.

A two-hour drive through the dramatic, mountainous Parque Natural Aizkorri-Aratz takes you back to Pamplona, capital of the Navarre region. Founded in Roman times, it is as bustling and buzzing as any modern Spanish city, with cafes and tapas bars serving Basque food. It has medieval walls, a vast main plaza, an impressive Gothic cathedral, a fascinating old town, churches and museums, including the must-see Museo de Navarra. Avoid the bulls, and feast instead on the culture.

INSIGHT GUIDES | MIKE GERRARD AND DONNA DAILEY

European Capitals of Culture

In 1983, Melina Mercouri, a Greek minister of culture and former actress, came up with the idea of designating one European city to be the City of Culture each year. Now they're called Capitals of Culture, and two cities share the honor. Start planning your travels, as the cities put on their best face with new museums, special exhibitions and one-off events.

2015 It's not too late to visit Mons in Belgium or Pilsen in the Czech Republic (known for the beer Pilsner Urquell).

2016 Sharing duties with San Sebastian will be Wroclaw in Poland, recently voted one of the world's best cities to live in.

2017 The Cultural Capitals will be Denmark's second city, Aarhus, and Paphos on the Mediterranean island of Cyprus.

Fall food fests in the Finger Lakes

Combine autumn leaf-peeping with tastes of the region's farm-to-table restaurants, wineries and brews, with a Punkin' Chunkin' and harvest festival to round it off.

The Finger Lakes fall culinary weekend is Oct. 24–25. It's a full menu of tastings, noshing, sipping, touring and dining, interspersed with concerts and seasonal events.

Oct. 23–24
Finger Lakes Beer Festival
Theglen.com
This festival is a beer lover's dream, with over 35 New York State breweries, cideries and distilleries gathered at Watkins Glen International Raceway, plus regional cuisine and a 32-team corn hole tournament. There's bonfire inside Turn 1 on Saturday night and live music by Iron Horse Bluegrass.

Oct. 24
Farm-to-Table Cooking Adventure
This all-day tour starts with a farm visit to harvest ingredients for the lunchtime cooking/demo class. A vineyard tour and wine tasting and pairing with regional cheese and fruit follows. It's $145 per person, reservations required.

Taste of the Finger Lakes
Bvtnaples.org
Chefs from area restaurants present samples of their specialties, paired with local wines. This is a good way to find restaurants to enjoy a full meal later in the weekend. Attendees must be 21.

Harvest Festival at Buttonwood Grove
Buttonwoodgrove.com.
Come here for more noshes and wine, by the glass or in slushies. The music is from local favorite Phil Dumond, who's opened for the likes of Willie Nelson and Buffalo Springfield. If you overimbibe, no problem: Buttonwood Grove has onsite accommodations.

Oct. 24–25
Punkin' Chunkin' at Varick Winery and Vineyard
Varickwinery.com
With a view of Cayuga Lake, it's easy to linger here, either at the tasting room, the country store (selling Varick's sauces, fruit butters, mustards "with an attitude" and local honey) or the comfortable, cozy inn. The Punkin' Chunkin' invites contestants to try to hit targets — no statistics on whether aim gets better or worse after the wine tastings.

Oct. 25 (and Nov. 1)
Through the Tasting Glass: The Wondrous Wines of Keuka Lake
Groups of five to 13 can tour the Keuka Lake wine region for private visits to some less-accessible wineries. The trip includes one of the few wineries that can call its wine "champagne." A wine-paring lunch is included.

Oct. 31
The Best of Seneca West Wine Tour
This one is for dedicated wine and beer connoisseurs. It starts with a visit to the boutique Kemmeter Winery, followed by lunch is at FLX Winery with sausages, burgers and homemade sides paired with an international selection of craft beers. Next up is a tour of Wiemer Vineyards, one of the Top 100 American wineries in 2014. The last stop is Red Tail Ridge Winery, which is producing varietals not found elsewhere in the Finger Lakes Region. It's $145 per person.

If you prefer independent touring, download three self-guided trail maps to Finger Lakes Wineries at Fingerlakewinecoutry.com. And for more information on the Finger Lakes, visit Visitfingerlakes.com.

In search of a West Coast win

The Mets need to win one more time in Los Angeles to advance to the 2015 NLCS.

ROBERT CRISCOLA
@ItsGood2BeKing
sports@metro.us

Michael Conforto and the Mets are seeking one more win at Dodger Stadium on Thursday night. GETTY IMAGES

In 2006 the Mets beat the Dodgers to advance to the NLCS, their last playoff series win to date. Nearly a decade later, the Mets have a chance to repeat history. Los Angeles will be the locale for Thursday's decisive Game 5 (TBS, 8 p.m.) between the Mets and Dodgers, with the winner advancing to play the Chicago Cubs in the NLCS, which begins on Saturday.

The starting pitchers for this do-or-die contest will be New York's Jacob deGrom and LA's Zack Greinke. deGrom started Game 1 of this series and put up an impressive line in the Mets' 3-1 victory; seven innings pitched, five hits, one walk, and 13 strikeouts with no runs allowed. DeGrom will be pitching on five days rest, which is a bit of a concern as he allows opponents a .230 batting average on extra rest as opposed to a .183 batting average on regular rest.

DeGrom will have to pay close attention to Dodgers third baseman Justin Turner, who got two hits off him in Game 1 and is batting .467 in this series. Adrian Gonzalez, who has been swinging a hot bat lately as well (.313 with a home run and five RBIs this series), was 0 for 3 against deGrom in Game 1.

Gonzalez does own prior success against deGrom, though; he was 3 for 8 with two home runs and five RBIs against deGrom before Friday night's game.

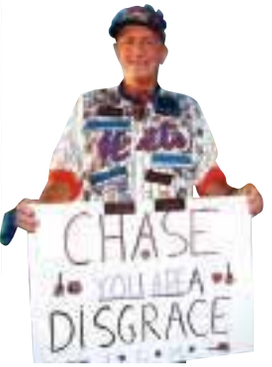
Greinke starts Game 5 on regular rest, and he was 11-1 with a 1.06 ERA in the regular season when he was allowed the conventional four days between starts. Greinke put up a solid line in his team's Game 2 victory, going seven innings while allowing two runs on five hits and striking out eight. Both of those runs came off solo homers, one by Yoenis Cespedes and the other by Michael Conforto — in the only game he's started in this series. David Wright had a dreadful Game 2, going 0 for 3 against Greinke while grounding into two double plays (his other AB was a strikeout). Wright has walked five times in four games but has just one hit, albeit a clutch hit in Game 1 that drove in the game-winning run.

Curtis Granderson recorded two hits off Greinke in Game 2 and has been stellar all series long, batting .429 with five RBIs. Wilmer Flores will start his third game of the series; he did not face Greinke in Game 2 as Ruben Tejada was the starting shortstop before he was injured in a controversial play at second base involving Chase Utley in the seventh inning of Game 2. Flores is 3 for 8 against Greinke all time.

Ninth-inning drama has been hard to come by as both teams' closers have been excellent in this series. Jeurys Familia of the Mets has yet to allow a hit in 3.1 innings of work, while Dodgers closer Kenley Jansen has held the Mets hitless in 2.1 innings.

Slide-pocalypse

Don't be surprised to see Chase Utley in the Dodgers' lineup Thursday night now that the series has shifted back to LA. Utley was allowed to play for the Dodgers in Games 3 and 4 at Citi Field but was likely benched due to safety reasons given the tenor of the Mets' crowd following the injury to Ruben Tejada.



NHL power rankings | by Rich Slate

No. 1

Canadiens (4-0)

Montreal is only the third team in NHL history to open a season with four straight road wins. It's just October, but the Habs are pretty hot.

No. 2

Sharks (3-0)

Similar to Montreal, San Jose is basically off to a perfect start. The Sharks have scored 12 goals and have only allowed one coming off a 5-0 shutout in D.C. on Tuesday.

No. 3

Red Wings (3-0)

The Red Wings picked up one of the most impressive wins of the young season by beating Tampa Bay, 3-1, Tuesday. Detroit has allowed four goals in its first three games.

No. 4

Predators (3-0)

Nashville hasn't scored many goals yet (7), but when you allow less than one a game (2), it's easy to pile up the points. The Central still looks like the gold standard in the NHL.

No. 5

B'Hawks (2-1)

After losing to the Rangers on opening night, the defending champs have bounced back with two wins in a row. They should remain in this upper echelon all season.

No. 6

Lightning (3-1)

The Eastern Conference champs opened up with three straight wins before running out of steam in Detroit. They still look like the class of their respective conference.

No. 7

Rangers (3-1)

The Rangers were also 3-0 before they got humbled by Winnipeg on Tuesday. They are at Montreal on Thursday in an early season showdown.

No. 8

Canucks (3-0-1)

Given their propensity to choke in the playoffs, this seems like a bit of a mirage, but you have to admit that Vancouver has looked pretty good thus far.

No. 9

Jets (3-1)

Given that they haven't played a home game yet this season, the Jets are off to a fantastic start. Their 4-1 win at Madison Square Garden Tuesday showed they are no fluke.

No. 10

Wild (2-0)

It's a small sample size here but the Wild appear to be a quality team once again. Zach Parise opened with a hat trick in their crazy 5-4 comeback victory in Colorado.

No. 17

Islanders (1-1-1)

So far the Islanders have been the only team to beat the Jets as they picked up a 4-2 victory on Columbus Day at home. They play Nashville and San Jose this week.

NOT DRAFTED? NO PROBLEM

FANTASY SPORTS

ADAM LEVITAN
alevitan@metro.us

Talent is our top priority when drafting our season-long teams. If we just chase opportunity, we end with #regrets like Davante Adams and C.J. Anderson.

But now that we're six weeks into the season, we can start looking more at opportunity when prioritizing transactions. The talented guys aren't available, and big volume with mediocre talent can work well. We also now know which teams are going to be playing from behind a majority of the time, which often bodes well for certain kinds of players.

So ignore the undrafted stigma and hop on board with these relative unknowns:

Charcandrick West is getting the brunt of the carries in Kansas City these days. GETTY IMAGES

The need for Snead

Willie Snead wasn't even supposed to make the Saints' final roster coming out of camp. Now he's their No. 1 receiver. It's not because of injury, it's because he's earned it with reliably excellent play for four straight months. With Brandin Cooks getting exposed as a complementary player, Marques Colston toast/hurt and Brandon Coleman disappointing, Snead is Drew Brees' go-to guy. Although this pass game isn't what it once was, that's still a big role. Willie should be penned into lineups going forward.

Go West, young man

Charcandrick West outsnapped Knile Davis 18-4 following Jamaal Charles' knee injury in Week 5. West also ran circles around Davis in the preseason, winning the backup job and holding it through the first month of the season. The Chiefs worked out free agents Ben Tate, Pierre Thomas and Bryce Brown this week, but didn't sign any of them. It's another vote of confidence in West, who plays well in the pass game — a crucial tool for Andy Reid as evidenced by the likes of Charles and former Eagle Brian Westbrook. Don't be afraid to blow 70-80 percent of your FAAB budget on West.

Mr. Wilson's neighborhood

Marquess Wilson is the real deal. Finally adding bulk to his 6-foot-4 frame, he's recorded a 12-165-1 line over the last two weeks while Alshon Jeffery (calf) has sat out. Even once Jeffery returns, Wilson has significant appeal in this mess of a Bears season. Expect plenty of three-wide sets, with Wilson as the downfield target and Eddie Royal underneath. The Bears must develop their young talent.

Week 6 studs

A look at players who you should add to your roster this week:

Christine Michael, RB, Cowboys — Dallas is reportedly considering starting C-Mike over Joseph Randle following their bye.

Gary Barnidge, TE, Browns — Flew under the radar for far too long. Actually a very good athlete in a pass-happy offense.

Golden Tate, WR, Lions — It's an ideal spot for the dormant Lions offense to break out against the Bears and get Tate his first TD of the year.

John Brown, WR, Cardinals — Expect Brown to set a new season-high for yards as Carson Palmer shreds the talent-deficient Steelers secondary this week.
